
From: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
Sent: Tuesday, 19 March 2019 6:01 PM
To: [REDACTED]
Subject: RE: Christchurch & DNS blocking [SEC=UNCLASSIFIED]

Thanks [REDACTED], yes all good this end.
Appreciated the quick response and feedback.
Yes we comply with the Family Friendly Filter Scheme as well.

This whole situation certainly highlights areas of concern in the present online environment.

Kind Regards,
[REDACTED]

From: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]@esafety.gov.au>
Sent: Tuesday, 19 March 2019 4:54 PM
To: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
Subject: RE: Christchurch & DNS blocking [SEC=UNCLASSIFIED]

Hi [REDACTED]

Good to hear from you, and I hope you're keeping well.

There are some rumours abounding online that the eSafety Commissioner has provided direction or data to Australian ISPs to aid their blocking efforts, however we have not.

I am not sure what the list being used by [REDACTED] or [REDACTED] is, but under the relevant industry codes the Prohibited URL Filter list we maintain is only able to be disclosed to filter vendors participating in the Family Friendly Filter Scheme, unfortunately.

Sorry I couldn't be of any more assistance.

All the best and warm regards,

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]
Manager
Content Investigations and Law Enforcement Liaison Section
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Office of the eSafety Commissioner

From: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]>
Sent: Tuesday, 19 March 2019 4:13 PM
To: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED]@esafety.gov.au>
Subject: Christchurch & DNS blocking

Hi [REDACTED],

I hope you're well and that you may be able to provide some advice.

This morning it was reported in the Australian media that both [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] were implementing website blocking in relation to footage of the events in Christchurch. Unfortunately we don't have a copy of the list of the websites that [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] are blocking.

Does the E Safety Commissioner have a disclosable list of websites that they would recommend we blocked in respect to the events in Christchurch?

[REDACTED] will implement DNS blocking on any website you recommend.

Kind Regards,

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

This email is confidential and may be subject to legal or other professional privilege

[REDACTED]