Hi Julie

As I've sent through a couple of things, I thought it was best to update your pack so everything in one place. Please also note the recent advice from the Office for Women received this afternoon.

See attached the following documents:

1. Talking points for panel discussion: Tackling Harm in the Digital Era (saved to calendar and sent through earlier today)
2. Briefing for global coalition for digital safety (saved to calendar and previously provided printed copy)
3. Microsoft background info you requested for your meet with Brad Smith (previously provided and printed). This includes:
   - 3.1 - A summary 47E(d) 47E(d) 47E(d)
   - 3.2 - The letters sent by Microsoft regarding their BOSE notice
   - 3.3 - The minutes of the BOSE meeting with Microsoft
   - 3.4 -A report by the International Justice Mission on indicators that companies can look for to detect livestreamed CSEA.

To Note - Advice from Office for Women

- WEF's Gender Parity Accelerator initiative – we've received advice from the office for women that Australia is not signing on to the WEF's Gender Parity Accelerator initiative at this stages after being approach late last year. To assist you with any questions they've provided a couple of talking points in case you may need them:
  1. Australia thanks the World Economic Forum for the invitation to set up a Gender Parity Accelerator.
  2. Australia is progressing a targeted and ambitious gender equality agenda domestically and may consider a GPA at a later date.
  3. Attachment 4 that has been provided by OFW includes a bit of a breakdown of last year's Global Gender Gap Index report for Australia, which may be helpful for your engagement with WEF.

If you need anything further please reach out.
