

Free webinar: Online harmful sexual behaviours, misinformation and emerging technologies

Join our live professional learning webinar designed for educators and those working with children and young people.

This webinar offers evidence-based targeted advice to identify and understand the impact of online harmful sexual behaviours, while providing the skills to keep children and young people safe online.

It includes a 90-minute webinar, followed by 30 minutes of reading and a quiz.

Participants who complete this professional learning activity will receive a certificate for two hours of professional learning, accredited by NESAs (NSW) and TQI (ACT).

By the end of this professional learning activity, participants will be able to:

- identify online harmful sexual behaviours and support students to understand the meaning of consent, online respect and refusal skills
- identify the impact of online misinformation and support students to critically evaluate information and trusted sources
- explore the social and safety implications of emerging technologies and understand the key safety skills children and young people require.
