

LEAVING DEADLY DIGITAL FOOTPRINTS!

An online safety guide for families with young people

This guide has been created with First Nations young people, their families and carers, with support from the community of Gimuy (Cairns, Queensland).

First Nations people are some of the deadliest innovators and storytellers in the world, and the internet has created another space for us to share our stories.

Sharing strengthens our identity, culture and connections with each other, but not when it hurts us or our mob.

Leaving Deadly Digital Footprints! outlines our top 10 topics about online safety and includes a few other surprises. Use the information in this guide to yarn together about staying safe and being kind online.

We hope this guide answers some of your burning questions and gets mob talking about becoming deadly online explorers, gamers and digital creators!

Let's work together to keep our mob safe and deadly online so we can grow as digital leaders!

Read Leaving Deadly Digital Footprints! and get started today!

Visit the eSafety website to learn more: eSafety.gov.au/first-nations