s 37, s 47F, s 47G Thank you for the call today and for providing this extensive and useful information. We will follow this up and will do what we can to help. Trust me, you were heard and I will indeed ensure this is passed on in my conversations in Canberra next week.

All the best,

Julie

Hi s 37, s 47F, s 47G

Acknowledging, and thank you. This is all very helpful. It will take a little time for me to gather information to respond, but please know that we are working in the background.

All my best,

Toby.

Dear s 37, s 47F, s 47G

Thank you for taking the time to speak with Julie and me earlier. We very much appreciated the chance to hear your concerns directly and to understand the way your community is being affected by the online material and behaviours we discussed.

s 37, s 47E(d), s 47F

s 37, s 47F, s 47G

you made the observation that some of older members of the Jewish community are not especially tech-savvy. If there is a way for us to reach them with information and advice about how to seek eSafety's help (and where reports to law enforcement might be needed), please let us know. We also have a wealth of resources to share about staying safe online.

Julie mentioned that she will be meeting next week with the Minister for Communications, the Hon Michelle Rowland MP, and the Secretaries of both the Attorney-General's Department and Department of Home Affairs, and will raise your concerns and observations with each then.

My number is below, so feel quite free to call me to discuss anything at all.

Kind regards,

Hi s 37, s 47F, s 47G

s 37, s 47E(d), s 47F

However, we expect that the review of the Online Safety Act this year will include an assessment of how all four schemes are operating in practice. This is likely to involve assessment of the adult cyber abuse test, among other things.

The review will be managed by the Department of Infrastructure, Transport, Regional Development, Communications and the Arts, and will almost certainly include a public consultation phase. We would encourage the ECAJ to make a submission, as in addition to the statutory issues related to the schemes' operation, the review is expected to also consider what role eSafety might play in combatting online hate.

We don't have final dates for the publication by the Department of the terms of reference, but will keep you across any developments.

Looking forward to rounding back soon on the other pieces.

Toby.

s 37, s 47F, s 47G Please do not feel hopeless!!! We may not be able to action everything - but will action anything that we can.

I've raised these concerns with our Minister this morning; she is also concerned and we will continue providing her a watching brief and discussing with senior officials across portfolios.

Take good care and all the best, Julie

Dear Toby and Julie,

All I can say is thank you. It is such a distressing time and your help in this regard is much appreciated. Makes us all feel a little less hopeless.

As we noted last Friday, Julie is meeting the Minister for Communications this morning, and I am meeting with senior Australian Federal Police members tomorrow. We will be raising your concerns in both meetings, and with the Secretaries of both Home Affairs and Attorney-General's shortly.

I will look forward to giving you an update shortly.
